House of Lords and other debates..

On May 2nd 2008 young people across the United Kingdom arrived at the House of Lords to pick three campaigns for the next year .

In 6 debates which continued all day we picked 3 great campaigns which were popular for young people also these were Abolish University fees, Recycling and free transport for young people across the UK.

The house of Lords is a once in a lifetime opportunity for those who were there including myself along with other MYP's across Norfolk who try to represent your views the best they can.

The House of Lords is not happening again in the near future but UK Youth Parliament have been allowed into the House Of Commons in May to discuss the next six campaigns that have been most popular with young people these include political education in school and media portrayal of young people which is a campaign important to me but is to you?

Log on to the youth parliament forums to get your voice heard!

Other Events include the National sitting where we write our Manifesto-what young people want across the UK and Circles Of Influence held in the British Museum where we discuss the campaign which any young person can come too.

What I have done..

During this last year I have done many things in my constituency.

These include helping set up a youth council in Norwich which runs fortnightly, meeting my MP twice and going to county hall to meet councilors and discuss transport for young people for free in Norfolk also I have represented Norfolk nationally by speaking at conferences and also I have begun to train as peer mentor so I can talk to young people and truly get their views. Recently I also won the Norwich Civic Award for Voluntary Service for my hard work in my constituency.
